5 Signs Your Construction Firm Needs a vCISO

Most firms your size don't need a full-time security executive. But there's a point where "no dedicated security function" stops being fine.

The five signs

- You're being asked security questions in RFPs nobody feels confident answering.
- Your cyber insurance renewal got noticeably harder, or the premium jumped.
- You've had at least one "close call" — a suspicious email or near-miss.
- You've grown past the size where informal IT habits still work (typically 20-30+ employees).
- No one could tell you, today, what your incident response plan actually is.

What a vCISO actually solves

A virtual CISO gives you strategic security leadership — risk assessments, a practical roadmap, ongoing advisory — without the cost of a full-time executive hire.
